HE TOOK THE CHANCE OF GETTING HEPATITIS B— AND LOST.

NOW THE CONSEQUENCES ARE JUST BEGINNING. CHRONIC ACTIVE HEPATITIS, CIRRHOSIS... OR DEATH.

You undoubtedly know someone who's had it. The "bad hepatitis" that can keep you in bed for weeks and out of a job for months—that can cause lifelong disability and even death from cirrhosis or cancer of the liver. Where do you get it? From people who have become carriers of the virus. Today, it is estimated that at least 100,000 gay men are carriers of the hepatitis B virus and spread the infection through intimate contact. That's the main reason why more than half of all gay men will sooner or later become infected.

How can you tell who's a carrier? You probably can't. Most carriers seem to be perfectly healthy, and many are themselves unaware that they harbor the virus.

Once you get hepatitis B, there's no specific treatment for it. But now there's something you can do to help protect yourself.

DON'T TAKE A CHANCE— CONTACT YOUR DOCTOR OR CLINIC AND ASK ABOUT THE HEPATITIS B VACCINE.

It is highly effective in those who receive all three shots. Do it today because you never know where or when you'll make contact with a carrier.

If you'd like to have more information about hepatitis B and the vaccine, call The American Liver Foundation at (201) 857-2626.

This message is brought to you as a public service by The American Liver Foundation.

Studies showed that the vaccine protected against infection caused by hepatitis B virus in 85% to 96% of those who received the required three shots.

Hepatitis B virus is an important cause of viral hepatitis, a disease mainly of the liver. Even mild forms of this disease may lead to serious complications and aftereffects, including liver cancer. There is no specific treatment for viral hepatitis.

Vaccination is recommended for persons who have a higher risk of becoming infected with hepatitis B virus because of frequent, close contact with infected people or exposure to body fluids from such people. It will not protect against hepatitis caused by viruses other than hepatitis B virus.

Because of the long incubation period for hepatitis B, it is possible for unrecognized infection to be present at the time the vaccine is given. The vaccine may not prevent hepatitis B in such patients.

DEAR DIAMOND LIL

Are we setting our requirements a little too high in our search for romance? Are we searching in the wrong places? Are we trying too hard to make things happen? We really can't force things, you know. But we can be open, ready, and available for love if it comes along. If we've searched same old, tired areas time and time again with no results, then Sugarfoot, it's past time to change playgrounds and playmates! Only through change are new things made available and possible. If you're stuck in the same old muck and mire and your feelings need some fresh air, why not post a letter to Dear Diamond Lil, c/o R & R Publications, Inc., 729 Piedmont Ave. NE, Atlanta, GA 30308. Remember, "stuffed" feelings can make us ornery!

Dear Diamond Lil,

I read the letter from "Help," in your column, who was looking for a relationship with a tall person (5'10" or over) and felt I had to write. I am also looking for a relationship, and I prefer tall men, although it doesn't make a great deal of difference to me. I am 5'10" (I meet the minimum height requirement), 26 years old; and I consider myself nice looking even if no one else does. I have a different problem. I am overweight, and I don't mean by just a few pounds. I have lost 40 pounds in the past year, but I still have a long way to go. When I go out, I cannot meet people; and I feel it is because of my weight. Everybody seems to be looking for a person who is a model or bodybuilder; and I think people are passing up some of the nicest, intelligent and loving people there are.

22 - CRUISE

A few years ago, somebody tried to start a Girth and Mirth club in Atlanta, but it folded because of a lack of interest. I like to look at a nice body as much as anybody, but I also know that it takes more than just a good body to make a relationship. I have a nice circle of friends who are very supportive of me, but I desire something more. I want the personal closeness of another human being that you can only find in a relationship.

In the past, I have been out with people to go to a play or a movie; and we've had a wonderful time. They tell me how nice I am, that I'm intelligent, sensitive and a wonderful person; but when we get home, it's a handshake and they say, "You're a nice person, but you're not my type." I finally got tired of it and stopped asking people out (nobody asked me, so I had to ask them). I haven't had a date in over a year, but now I really want a relationship, and I've never had one.

What I want to say to "Help" is: Please reevaluate what you're looking for in a relationship. It doesn't matter how tall a person is. What does matter is what's inside, because that is what will make or break a relationship. Alas, this is not a problem confined exclusively to the gay community. I have a straight woman friend who is pretty but also overweight, and she has the same problem with men that I do. I think it's a crime that society as a whole places so much emphasis on beauty that we forget to look for the person.

Thank you for letting me blow off some steam. If you have anybody who is interested in writing me, you have my permission to give them my address.

Thanks,
Frustrated, PO Box 1435
Atlanta, GA 30301

Dear "Frustrated,"

Thank you for your honest, open letter telling it like it is.

Unfortunately, as you know, this country is set up on a glamour and beauty standard geared toward making sales and money, at the mental and emotional expense of others, and, according to a large portion of gay standards, if you're not between the ages of 17 and 23, you're over the hill, anyway. Naturally, all of this lunacy makes it a little harder to find a relationship for those who do not fit in that category. One might not want to be involved with anyone that opinionated, if you think about it.

By the way, I have a couple of very chubby friends who do quite well with bi-sexual guys. The "straighter" lads seem to go for those who have something on the ball upstairs, rather than a physical appearance. These two friends tell me it's the only way. You might want to toss this idea around for what it's worth.

The community grapevine says there are "chubby-chasers" around town. Personally, I'm still looking for those who chase "exotics!"

Here's hoping you have some meaningful results.

Love with "no scale" of one to ten,

Diamond Lil

Dear Diamond Lil,

I have been reading your column ever since it appeared in Cruise, and I really think the advice you have given to the guys who have written to you is excellent, and I thought maybe you could help me. I have been living in Atlanta for about a year now, as I was transferred down here by my company from up north. I am 27, have a good job, I am good looking, or at least people say so. My problem is I am so lonely here. I would like to meet someone who would like a relationship, but I have not met anyone here who was interested. Thanks for listening, Lil. My address: Boxholder PO Box 20674, Atlanta, Ga 30320.

P.S. Maybe you could offer me some suggestions other than the bars where I could meet some nice guys.

Lonely in Atlanta

Dear "Lonely,"

I want to thank you for your very complimentary letter.

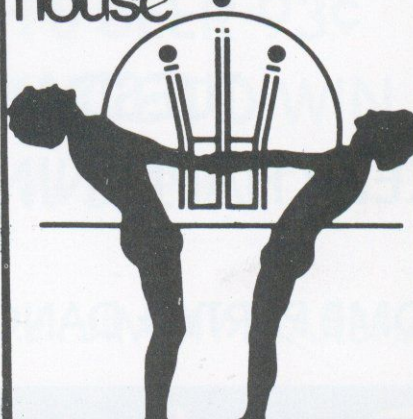

If you desire to meet persons other than in the bar scene, then you'll need to become involved in activities in other areas. This does seem to be a major problem within the community, and I'm hopeful that some of our readers might come up with alternative suggestions. In the meantime, you might think of exercise classes, physical fitness programs, at the YMCA. Callanwolde Arts Center on Briarcliff Rd. is a marvelous place to become involved. The Emory Bulletin offers activities in dance, drama, writing and just about anything one can name. The Creative Loafing newspaper (free at most street corners) has a world of activities outside of the basic bar scene. The Metropolitan Community Church, Unity, or the Atlanta Church of Religious Science are places where you can obtain mental stimulation, as well as socialize with new people.

Right now, I'm positive you'll meet a few nice, sincere friends through Cruise Weekly!

*With love, new friendships, and some new joy,
Diamond Lil*

Whatever happened to faggot lunches? I was a guest at a wonderful faggot lunch today. The kind that makes you feel seedy and unclear. You know, silver goblets, silver napkin rings—they always start with a cold soup. Sometimes Senegalese (cold curry) or today, cold cucumber soup. It was great!! We had Sangria without any fruit. Sort of Sans Sangria.

Nobody can give a lunch like a faggot. When the host is opening the champagne at one end of the table, the lover always distracts the guests from the other end with a really good joke. Now, that's planning.

In fact, whatever happened to just plain old faggots? Those brilliant dears that know how to do everything. I knew one that used to polish his pocket change every night. When he would hand it out the next day to attendants and the like they would always comment on its shiney-ness. He got dozens of tricks that way; a strange but very good conversation starter.

Dear old faggots do things like put the used egg shells back into the egg carton instead of throwing them directly into the trash. Good idea. One also told me that is is not necessary to refrigerate eggs. Even after you get them they are still good for at least thirty days outside the refrigerator. I didn't know that but it works fine.

I use a really good dear old faggot idea to this day. (I like to cook, too!!) Have a piece of marble cut to use in place of one of your refrigerator shelves. That way, when you're doing pie crusts or dough that needs to be rolled out you can use the "chilled" marble refrigerator shelf and the dough won't ever stick. Really good idea!!

Of course, every D.O.F. knows that you don't have to buy a steamer for vegetables. A collander on top of a big pot of water works just as well. I asked an older friend once how he ordered the right amount of liquor for a party. He said, "Two ounces of liquor for every five pounds of guest." It works! (Remember to use your white telephone).

One told me once the secret of screwing straight guys. Just do it, don't ask; and afterwards, don't mention that it ever happened. That works, too! She (sorry; he) also said that if a straight is putting down gay people at a gathering in-a-loud-voice-so-everyone-can-hear, don'tcha-know!! All you have to say is, "why are you so preoccupied with that subject? No one but you seems interested?" That works beautifully. I used that one in the Air Force. Another one of that ilk that works well is to say to the same macho sort when you have them entirely alone is, "Excuse me, but I've always wondered; are you gay? I'm not prejudiced and I've always wondered?" You might have to fight your way out of that one; but it works, too.

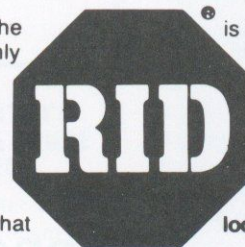

A D.O.F. once told me that the best way to get rid of someone in the morning is to ask them to kneel and have a word of prayer with you. It's just so damned practical and does the trick—so to speak. Elaborate religious garments also help (I wouldn't go so far as a home altar).

It was the D.O.F. in New York City that first discovered the gruesome trick of looking in the obituaries to see when the old rent control apartments came available. Harsh, yes, but it works.

Love, if you want to know how to do something in a practical way, ask a dear old faggot. It's like talking to Lincoln's Library. You know the best way to get rid of the crabs? Take them to the movies and buy them a box of popcorn. When they get up to get something to drink, change seats. Or, shave a patch down the middle. When they start to cross over stab them with an ice pick. I wonder if it would work?

DO YOUR FRIEND, AND YOURSELF, A FAVOR. INTRODUCE HIM TO

Crabs are not the end of the world, but they can certainly make it unpleasant. RID is a liquid treatment that is available without prescription. It's safe and it kills crabs in ten minutes. Each package includes a patented fine-tooth comb that is 100% effective in removing dead lice and nits. So the next time you or your friend discover crabs, do yourselves a favor and get RID. It's safe. It's available without a prescription at your local pharmacy. And it works.

THE ATLANTA GAY CENTER'S ALCOHOLISM AND DRUG ABUSE PREVENTION PROJECT

You may have seen this poster around Atlanta. Our rates of alcoholism and drug abuse are up to five times higher than the general population's rate. The Atlanta Gay Center has organized an awareness campaign with a poster, a series of six articles now running in Cruise Newsmagazine, and a conference.

The poster is available from the AGC, 848 Peachtree Street, 3rd floor, for one dollar donation.

Past articles on "How Much Is Too Much," "Telling A Friend," "The Bars," "Partying and Socializing," and "Healthy Coping" will be posted for you to read at the Center.

The conference is on choices for gay and lesbian living. It will take place Saturday, October 8th at the Unitarian Universalist Church. Conference workshops are on ideas for coping with gay and lesbian problems. Events like this are fun, interesting and a way to meet new people.

It has been three years since "Gay in the 80's." We urge you not to miss this conference. Registration forms may be requested by calling 892-0661 or 876-5372.

SUNNY MOON'S METROPOLIS TO BE STATE-OF-THE-ART

The worlds of live theater and audio/video dance bar are scheduled to emerge in a new club called Metropolis in early September on the former sight of Poodles. Metropolis will be the home of Stagemasters, Inc., and "state of the art" video entertainment, announced Sunny Moon, who has formed a partnership with former Poodles owner Jerry Pyszka. Moon estimated that the cost of renovations and new equipment ran about $50,000.

"New York, Chicago, San Francisco and LA all have video bars," Moon explained, "and Atlanta, with such a large population should not be left out in this latest trend in gay entertainment." The format already being successfully employed in many video bars includes strategically places "monitors" near cruise bars and dance floors on which film clips programmed by "Video Jockeys" are shown.

Metropolis' new equipment will include the hardware to film in-house video programs, Moon said. A warehouse area will be turned into a workshop where props and sets can be made. The theatrical equipment will also come in handy for another reason—live theatre.

Stagemasters, Inc., will begin a six-month theatre season with the gay-themed "If This Isn't Love," Moon announced. "This is the heart of Atlanta's entertainment district," he said, "and it's time for a permanent gay theatre."

Moon and Pyszka will employ a cast of bartenders, waiters, actors, technicians and production artists, including Sunny's lover John Brown, a surgeon and film buff. He hopes to encourage local artists to produce gay news and comedy programs. On a typical night, Moon said, a theatre performance would end around 10pm, and tables and chairs would be removed from the theatre creating a huge dance floor. Video entertainment would be projected on two large-screen and on several 19" monitors. Metropolis will be designed in a "Deco-Tech" style in "silver, crystal, and grey color with brick accents."

DONNA SUMMER: EX DISCO-DIVA, SAVED, ANTI GAY?

Richard Noland

"I have even seen the evil homosexuality come out of you people...AIDS is your sin," says Donna Summer, according to allegations made by Michael Kutza, Director of the Chicago International Film Festival.

Michael and a friend went to see Summer at the Holiday Star Theatre the weekend of July 4th. During her show she talked about finding God, as she regularly does since "being saved." Midway through the show she is reputed to have introduced a song from her current album by saying, "This is for all you heterosexuals out there." Michael and his friend found this to be an odd comment.

Donna now has a regular question and answer session after her shows for those who wish to talk about religion. Michael and his friend stuck around, curious to see what would happen. It was during this session that a man asked Summer how she felt about gays.

She replied, according to Mr. Kutza, "I'll pray for you people. I'll pray for you tonight."

When the man suggested to Summer that there was nothing wrong with him, that she didn't have to pray for him, Summer reputedly made the remarks I opened this column with during the course of her answers. Mr. Kutza also says that she added, "Don't get me wrong; God loves you. But not the way you are now."

Mr. Kutza was angered and saddened by this. He says Summer is in fine voice and shape as always, but being hypocritical because, despite her claiming to have turned her back on her former lifestyle, she is still being marketed as a very sexual act. He quipped, "It's fun seeing a born-again Christian in a Bob Mackie dress."

During the course of the above discourse, the crowd as a whole was hostile to the gay man's questioning and Mr. Kutza heard numerous remarks around him. It's even reported that Summer's crew are now all born-again Christians.

In Vegas magazine (week of July 17th, 1983), Summer was interviewed by Mary Lynn Starling prior to her opening at Vegas' MGM Grand. Starling reports that after Summer's phenomenal success as a disco superstar, she wasn't happy "with her image, or with herself." She felt empty and pressured, trapped by a character created for her that wasn't her, and resorted to the use of Valium and anti-depressants to make it from show to show. She states that this other character (her disco self) didn't fit her sense of morality. This led to guilt because she felt she was doing something wrong. She decided her lifestyle had to go. "At that point I felt a great change and I was able to reach out and say, 'God, help me because I'm struggling. Who am I? What does it all mean? I don't care about his house; I don't care about this car. I don't care about any of these things.'" This was about three years ago.

She struggled to reconcile her change with the disco image her fans had of her. She wanted to turn her back on the "Love To Love You" legacy. As a whole, many feel that with her latest album, "She Works Hard for the Money," she has succeeded—sexuality being replaced with other feelings. Summer attributes this to the Lord. She says her meeting with producer Michael Omartian was "divinely inspired and the Lord has watched over us throughout the recording. The Lord has been my inspiration."

JAMES HORNER TO SCORE AND SCORE "GORKY PARK"

James Horner has been signed to score and conduct the music for "Gorky Park," a Koch-Kirkwood Production for Orion Picture's release.

The 29-year-old Horner has quickly established himself as a respected talent in the music world. For the past three years he has been scoring music for motion pictures, his credits including "Star Trek II," "Wolfen," "48 Hrs.," "Krull" and the upcoming film, "Brainstorm."

"Gorky Park," a contemporary mystery dealing with murder, international intrigue and romance, stars William Hurt, Lee Marvin, Brian Dennehy, Ian Bannen and introduces Joanna Pacula. Directed by Michael Apted from the screenplay by Dennis Potter, which is based on the best-selling novel by Martin Cruz Smith, "Gorky Park" is produced by Gene Kirkwood and Howard W. Koch, Jr. Robert Larson is the executive producer.

"Gorky Park" will be released on December 16th, 1983 in the United States and Canada by Orion Pictures.

ALTERNATE PUBLISHING ANNOUNCED TRADE PAPERBACK LINE

Alternate Publishing, the gay-owned and operated publishing house that issues Drummer, Manifest, and Mach magazines, has announced a new line of trade paperbacks beginning with the release of John Preston's "Mr. Benson: The Complete Novel," on September 1st, 1983.

Alternate Publishing's initial title for this line of novels and non-fiction works was originally created for and serialized in the pages of Drummer magazine, where it became the most-read of all of Drummer's fiction offerings over the past eight years. Praise from such gay literary figures as Michael Denny ("Lovers: The Story of Two Men") and George Whitmore (The Confessions of Danny Slocome) came immediately; fan clubs sprang up in cities around the country; even Mr. Benson teeshirts appeared in New York and San Francisco.

"Mr. Benson: The Complete Novel" was re-edited by John Preston for its trade papaerback debut and includes a previously unpublished final chapter that considerably expands the original story. At the same time that Alternate Publishing is releasing "Mr. Benson," another gay press, Alyson Publications, has John Preston's second novel picking up praise and attention. "Franny, The Queen of Provincetown," a dramatic departure from the hard-edged SM setting of "Mr. Benson," is the story of a pre-liberation gay man who goes from stereotypical queen to gay sage over the decades. Alternate Publishing's second trade paperback (set for October release) is Carlo Carlucci's "He's Not Heavy, He's My Lover"—a funny, satiric, touching, warm, unforgettable look at contemporary gay life from the pen of one of America's brightest, warmest, wittiest cartoonists. Alternate Publishing feels Carlo's cartoon book is, without a doubt, a definite stocking stuffer that will also be treasured for years to come. Next on the list (set for fall release) is an original novel by Mason Powell, contributing editor of the Castro Times, called simply "The Brig." But the title is the only simple thing about this devastating account of what happens to a young man when he tries to have himself dismissed from the military because of his opposition to the war in Viet-Nam. Mason Powell has crafted a new SM literature that goes further than anything yet to appear. "The Brig" combines extraordinary sexual explicitness and psychological terror in an awesomely new way guaranteed to keep the reader up all night and to reduce him to a sniveling mass by the book's inescapable conclusion. Alternate Publishing is predicting that "The Brig" will make gay literary history and is the finest novel on SM since "The Story of Q."

For further information on this season's titles, please contact Alternate Publishing, 15 Harriet, San Francisco, Ca 94103.
