LILLY CHRISTINE,

THE INSIDE STORY ON
HOMO-SEXUALS

HOMOSEXUALS ARE MADE, NOT BORN

WHAT MAKES A MAN HOMOSEXUAL?
CAN MARRIED MEN BECOME HOMOSEXUAL?
WHAT CAN SOCIETY DO?

Word now coming out of psychiatric experiments may mean greatest medical advance in years. Subject: homosexuality.

Recent developments indicate that whole approach to homosexuality in this country has been wrong, by doctors as well as by society. Result, as stated in Kinsey report, is that one out of three American men have some homosexual contact during life. DARE believes that whole subject has been shrouded in mystery, buried in medical journals much too long. These are the facts:

One of most startling experiments ever performed was done by Dr. M. Jenkins. Jenkins separated male and female rats right after birth, kept them apart indefinitely. As rats reached puberty, some began to indulge in homosexual acts. The longer they were kept from opposite sex, more rats became homosexual. Then Jenkins brought them back together. But rats had acquired a habit, male rats showed no attention to females, remained permanently homosexual. So did females.

Results, says Jenkins, are obvious. Sex, like anything else, has to be taught. Thus homosexuality is often result of wrong upbringing, lack of contact with opposite partner. Proof: on ships, in Army, in prison, in all cases where sexes are kept apart, incidence of homosexuality is high. Habit of homosexuality, like drinking, drug-addiction, is easily formed, requires psychiatric aid to break. See following cases:

Case No. 1

34 year old married man, with one child, came to psychiatrist because of "overwhelming homosexual urges."
Story:

Father of this man, was away during First World War, died shortly after. Boy did not remember him and was raised by his mother. Elder brother, who had become head of family, ridiculed boy because he was not manly enough. Boy had intense desire for mother's love, but felt she preferred other son. Result was unconscious hatred for women, growing need to escape from responsibility to be manly.

In school boy became very feminine, played girls in amateur theatricals. At home he was told repeatedly that girls were taboo, that he should stay away from them, keep out of "trouble." Finally married at age of 25, he lead sheltered life, but was beginning to realize his normal place in world when WW II broke out. He was sent to North Africa. Separated from wife and all feminine contact, he reverted to childhood desires, indulged in homosexual relations despite great risk. After war he returned home, but awakened homosexual urge was too strong. In desperation, he sought psychiatrist.

Case No. 3

18 year old draftee, caught in homosexual act with older sergeant. Draftee came from excellent family, so highly placed that news and charges had to be dropped. Story:

Boy was one of six children—five girls in family, no father. At early age, his mother used to dress him as a girl, let his hair grow long. In school he was bright and quick, but not athletic. Result was bigger boys took his homework away from him, kidded him whenever he played sports.

Boy confessed that he had always wished to be a girl, thought he "should have been a girl in the first place." Reason: nobody would beat him up, steal his homework, he wouldn't have to play baseball. Also, felt that mother would accept him if he was a girl.

By the time he was eighteen boy was confirmed homosexual. His arrest led to capture of a ring of hundreds of men in all ranks of both Army and Navy, practicing homosexual "clubs" centered in Baltimore.

Wrong ideas about homos: they are made, not born. Says Dr. Allen: "We do not believe that there is such a thing as inborn homosexuality, or, if it does occur, we have never been privileged to see a case."

Perversion has nothing to do with body characteristics. Old-fashioned idea of "intersex"—persons half man and half woman—is false. Army doctors could not tell homosexuals from ordinary men without questioning, although they examined millions. "Homosexuality comes from the brain, not the hips."

Neither do sex hormones make any difference. Thousands of virile-looking men are homosexual, thousands of tiny, feminine women are Lesbian.

Conclusion: Homos are tragic cases, should be treated as such. Fault lies with parents and environment, not with individuals. And early years are most important. Boys raised with girls alone, boys sent to non-coeducational schools, run great risk of becoming homosexual.

Hence ignorance DARE believes, is fundamental weakness in American society. Education is the only way out, and whether or not your child becomes homosexual depends largely on you.
