A NEW LOGO AND A NEW YEAR FOR HL/GPW

by Jack Valinski

As HL/GPW enters 1992, a new logo has been chosen to represent the many activities of the new year.

On December 13, over 15 entries were submitted for our annual logo contest. Of these entries five were chosen by a panel of judges living and working in the community. The judges included Marion Coleman of House of Coleman, Greg Scott last year's winner and a professional artist, John of TNT T-Shirts and Brian Keever of the marketing committee of HG/LPW.

The final judging was on December 17 at the general meeting. Richard Bang's design was chosen. The design featured a long PRIDE = POWER, with the W made up of triangles.

So this is the last month you will see the TAKEPRIDE logo. It has served us well over the year. I personally thought it was the best of all we saw at the IAL/GPC conference in Boston.

Now armed with an official logo we are ready to move forward into 1992. Very soon the marketing Chair, Brian Keever will be working with different vendors to get the logo on T-shirts, hats and many other items. This helps fund our efforts. λ

WE NEED A FEW GOOD MEN & WOMEN

HG/LPW is looking for people to help organize this year's celebration. All of our committees need volunteers, we especially encourage women and people of color. If you can spare a few hours a week. Come to our next meeting or call us on the Pride Line 529-6979 and we will put to work. This newsletter takes about 60 people hours each month to produce. Pride Week can only be as successful as the community it represents. And thanks for helping our community. λ

PANSIES AGAINST ROSES

Queer Nation/Houston is sponsoring a protest at the upcoming concert appearance of Guns 'N Roses. The lead singer of this rock group, Axel Rose, states in a MTV interview that he gets great pleasure from "Kicking Faggot's Asses." The lead guitarist for the group frequently wears a tee shirt at concert appearances that depicts an aerosol can of insecticide and the slogan, "AIDS: KILLS FAGS DEAD."

Needless to say, this sort of ignorance and intolerance cannot go unaddressed. QN will stage a rally on Thursday, January 9th at 6:30 PM in front of the Summit on the Southwest Freeway. Protesters will carry signs and chant in front of the Summit for one to two hours before the concert. A large turnout is expected.

WHAT IS Q-PATROL?

Q-Patrol was formed two months ago by Montrose residents concerned about "fag-bashing." The purpose of the organization is to provide a visible presence in the area where most of the bashings have occurred and to report incidents to local law enforcement agencies.

A database has been established for storing the license numbers of vehicles whose occupants have been seen in the area engaging in gay-bashing and related activities.

BUGGING FAG-BASHERS ARRESTED

On Friday, December 27, four heterosexual juveniles, ages 15 to 19, were observed yelling "faggots" at members of the foot patrol. The foot patrol radioed that information to the mobile patrol, which began following the suspects. The suspects were seen verbally harassing persons on lower Westheimer and one of them threw a beer bottle at an individual. The mobile unit blocked the suspects' escape while the incident was reported to officers the Westheimer storefront substation. The suspects, residents of Nederland and Spring, were arrested and charged with various offenses.

Q-Patrol operates every Friday and Saturday night from 11:00 PM to 3:00 AM. Members meet at the HPD storefront located at 811 Westheimer at 11:00 PM. If you can volunteer at least one four-hour shift per month, we can use your help. If you are interested in participating, you can contact Mark Garther at 645-5252 or Keith Stewart at 522-5110.

SAFETY TIPS FROM Q-PATROL

- Never walk alone.
- Park in well-lighted areas.
- Carry a whistle or other noise-making device with you.
- Report any suspicious activity to the authorities.

QN meets every Tuesday at 7:30 PM
Montrose Palace, 1505 Nevada

TOGETHER WE CAN, JANUARY 19

A very special evening is planned on January 19, at 7:00 PM at the Heights Theatre (see page 6 and 7). Urvashi Vaid, Executive Director of the National Gay and Lesbian Task Force, the national gay and lesbian civil rights and lobbying organization will give an powerful speech. The evening will also feature performance artist Tim Miller.

Tim Miller is a performance artist who has been creating his own work since 1978. His work has consistently been a powerful and theatrical exploration of the connection between personal story and social events and activism.

Tim Miller says "My work as a performance artist tries to dig as deep as I can at the things that make me bang my head against the wall. Jumping off from autobiography, I look for connections between text and gesture, between life and the world around me, between myself and the audience. As a gay person and AIDS activist, I want to shake things up and create community through the weird and exciting reality of performing."

Steve Dollar, Theater critic of The Atlanta Constitution said of Tim "Those aesthetic jellyfish at the National Endowment for the Arts may have denied him funding, but it's awfully hard to resist performance artist Tim Miller. Political theater that offers a zinging one-two punch . . . that fuses activist rage, graphically freewheeling sexual imagery and compassionate wit into a moving manifesto."

Urvashi Vaid, is a long time feminist activist and community organizer, whose involvement in the feminist and gay/lesbian movement spans more than a decade. Organizers and projects on which Vaid has worked include Gay Community News, the March on Washington and a variety of grassroots community organizations dealing with violence. Vaid was born in New Delhi, India, and grew up in upstate New York.

1993 MARCH ON WASHINGTON

The Interim Coordinating Committee (ICC) has been busy putting together the next National meeting for the March on Washington. The last National meeting adopted a structure that called for the full National Steering Committee to convene for the first time in January of 1992. The ICC has now chosen to have this meeting on the weekend of Martin Luther King's birthday in Los Angeles. Keeping in mind the goal of moving the meetings throughout the United States, the west coast was a logical follow-up to previous meetings in D.C. and Chicago.

HOW DO I GET INVOLVED?

This march is going to be the cumulative effort of thousands of people. At this date, there is a serious need for people to help build the infrastructure that will be able to mobilize 1 million people in a little over a year. Right now each region is having meetings to choose four delegates to represent them in the National Steering Committee.

1987 - 650,000 people

1993 goal-1 million

WHAT'S GOING ON?

The 1987 Lesbian and Gay National March on Washington was the largest civil rights demonstration in the history of our country. In 3 days of actions and protests, 650,000 Lesbians, Gays, and supporters irrevocably demonstrated the strength in our combined communities.

Organizers around the country have called for this march to be repeated in 1993. Scheduled so as not to conflict with the massive and nationwide Anti-Columbus actions in 1992, the weekend of April 25th, 1993 was chosen as the date for the next Lesbian and Gay March on Washington.

To date, two national meetings have adopted an organizing structure that relies on grassroots organizing at the state and regional levels.

Our region is number 6 and includes Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and Arkansas. The next regional meeting is February 1st in Dallas at the Community Center, see the calendar section for more information. The Pride Week message center at 529-6979 is serving as the information center for the Houston region.

Each of these regions is charged with having four representatives to the National Steering Committee chosen by January 18, 1991. ICC members are working with each region to monitor progress and lend assistance.

FUNDRAISING IS UNDER WAY!

The ICC has opened a bank account for the March on Washington and is starting to pay outstanding organizing bills inherited from the two national meetings.

Present ICC plans call to pay all bills through the January meeting and also present the incoming National Steering Committee with at least $2,000 seed money. Right now, most of the present expenses come from phone bills for national conference calls and outreach calls. Unfortunately, no one has been successful in turning Sprint Long-Distance into a donor for the cause!

Checks should be made out to the 1993 March on Washington and should be sent to

GAY ROLES

by Ryan Murphy
from Details

Who says that straight actors won't play gay? Although the previous generation of superstars wouldn't ever step into a homosexual character's boots (both Robert Redford and Paul Newman passed on the now mythical never-made '70s drama The Front Runner, about a gay track coach), Hollywood's new crop is apparently less concerned about typecasting, especially when the role has Oscar written all over it.

Take, for example, The Mayor of Castro Street, a Warner Bros. movie planned for an early-1992 start-up about the life and times of San Francisco gay-rights leader Harvey Milk, who was assassinated in his political prime by a homophobic ex-cop. Every male over thirty in Hollywood, according to sources close to the movie, let it be known that he would love to tackle the meaty part, Al Pacino, Dustin Hoffman, Robert De Niro, and Robin Williams among them. But their campaigns pale next to that of James Woods.

PREVIOUS GENERATION OF SUPERSTARS WOULDN'T EVER STEP INTO A HOMOSEXUAL CHARACTER

Following the lead of onetime love object Sean Young (who mounted an embarrassing drive this summer for the role of Catwoman in the Batman sequel), Woods launched an all-out assault. He hired a secretary to research the role, then graciously delivered the clippings to the film's key players, even though they already owned the Harvey Milk archives. After making a personal pitch at the home of producer Oliver Stone—"a courtesy meeting" where he was bluntly told "over and over again" that he was not the first choice—Woods was overheard at a press junket for his early spring bomb, The Hard Way, saying that he all but had the part nailed. # ARE SOME PEOPLE BORN GAY?

from The New York Times

By Michael Bailey
and Richard Pillard

Science is rapidly converging on the conclusion that sexual orientation is innate. It has found that homosexuals often act differently from heterosexuals in early childhood, before they have even heard of sex. A recent study by Simon Levi, a neurobiologist at the Salk Institute, reported a difference in the hypothalamus, a part of the brain that develops at a young age, between homosexual and heterosexual men.

If true, a biological explanation is good news for homosexuals and their advocates.

Our own research has shown that male sexual orientation is substantially genetic. Over the last two years, we have studied the rates of whom sexuality in identical and nonidentical twin brothers of gay men, as well as adoptive brothers of gay men. Fifty-two percent of the identical twin brothers were gay, as against 22 percent of nonidentical twins and 11 percent of the adoptive, genetically unrelated brothers.

guys [meaning him and Stone] committed to this story," he said, "it would be possible to dispel homophobia in an even greater way."

Some Warner executives, hearing of Woods's false bravado, were not amused. "What he did was in appalling bad taste," said one exec. "Jimmy, although he could do the job, was never seriously considered." And why is that? "Because he is not a star."

Woods shut up only recently, when he learned that fellow CAA actor Robin Williams was the first choice for the role. "With this film we are trying to break through to Middle

In contrast, research on social factors has been fruitless. Despite many attempts, there has been no clear demonstration that parental behavior, even a parent's homosexuality, affects children's sexual orientation. Cultures tolerant of homosexuals do not appear to raise more of them than do less permissive societies.

Amphibious sometimes justify their prejudice against homosexuals by alleging that homosexuality is contagious that young homosexuals become that way because of older homosexuals and that homosexuality is a social corruption. Such beliefs form the core of the organized anti-homosexual movement. If homosexuality is largely innate, this would prove that these claims are ground-less.

Given these implications, it may seem surprising that the biological studies disturb many gay and lesbian advocates. Misunderstanding them, the advocates often suggest that the search for a biological cause is voted by an assumption that homosexual-

America," says the same exec, "and Robin gives warmth and familiarity."

Although the current screenplay contains several scenes of Milk romancing his younger boyfriend (also to be played by a name actor in his early thirties), the emphasis of the movie will be on hearts and minds, not bodies. "We're saying: This is an interesting man who among other things just happened to be gay," said Stone to a journalist recently. "He fought a civil-rights war from a minority viewpoint. That is of historical interest." λ ity is an illness. Behavioral scientists, however, have long searched for biological underpinnings of traits such as extroversion and intelligence, which no one considers to be negative. Furthermore, a biological explanation of homosexuality simultaneously explains heterosexuality.

The advocates worry that biological findings may be misused to try to alter or prevent homosexuality. But no scientific theory or finding by itself can lead to a proper attitude or policy toward homosexuality. Here, moral values must be primary.

This leads to a more pertinent fear of gays and lesbians, that people will assume that answers to moral questions hinge on the results of scientific study. Should a benevolent view of homosexuality depend on the assumption that it is innate? Are gays and lesbians to be tolerated only if they are "born that way"?

Regardless of what causes sexual orientation, there is no plausible justification for oppressing homosexuals. Reasons that have long been offered that homosexuals disproportionately molest children, convert heterosexuals to homosexuality are mentally ill, betray their country have been shown to be false.

But homophobia remains the one form of bigotry that respectable people can express in public. If the long overdue national debate on homosexuality took place, the poverty of the anti-homosexual case would become readily apparent.

If scientific study of the origins of sexual orientation would not directly resolve the public issue, why do it?

First, it can inform public debate. But, equally important is the value of discovery, particularly self-discovery. A gay man with a heterosexual identical twin, both of whom we studied, put it this way: "I accepted being gay years ago so that's not why I want to know. But sexual orientation is such an important part of my life anyone's life that I'm still curious why I turned out gay and my brother straight." How could anyone not be curious? λ

ST. PARTICK PARADE BANS GAYS

from Chicago Tribune

For the second successive year, the St. Patrick's Day Parade Committee has refused to allow a gay Irish group to join its march, and New York City Officials have began discussions about placing the parade in different hands. The parade committee, a panel of the Manhattan chapter of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, also has voted to bar from the march the division in its own organization that invited the gay group to join it last spring. The actions by the committee come in the face of a report by investigators from the city's Human Rights Commission recommending the committee be prosecuted. The controversy places the March 17 parade in jeopardy, with Mayor David Dinkins "reluctant to grant the parade permit to the people who have had it over the years," said Patrick Gatins, counsel to the Hibernians' state board. λ

PRIDE WEEK NEWSLETTER NEEDS YOUR SUPPORT !!!

Houston Lesbian/Gay Pride Week has just past the year mark in publishing a monthly newsletter. (except for October) This newsletter has the roots of the Montrose Activity Center Newsletter, with the original purpose of serving as an information outlet of the pride organization.

It is hoped that this newsletter can serve as an advertising vehicle for your business. Yes it would be nice, if you could advertise simply because of your community spirit. However, since I am sure you have been asked by every organization in the community to donate time and money, we hope that this newsletter would be good place to do some of your advertising.

Here is why. This newsletter is published monthly. The December issue had a 3,000 copies printed and 2,000 were mailed into the an active community list. The reminder were distributed in community businesses who have a high volume of traffic.

The newsletter is the most compressive listing of calendar items in a our community. The December, March, September and June (Pride Guide) also has the most compressive listing of community organizations.

The mailing list is the most up to date in the community. It is used every month with return corrections requested. The list is maintained in cooperation with other community organizations so that anyone who is more than one list can be updated in a number of ways.

The newsletter is not a substitute to the community publications nor does it try to compete with the established press, however it does try to fill the gaps left by the other publications.

I hope the above points have made a case for your support of the Houston Lesbian/Gay Pride Week Newsletter. Below are the rates for camera ready ads.

If you are interested please call me at 529-6979. HL/GPW is a committee under the Montrose Activity Center and is a 510 (c)(3) non-profit educational organization. λ

March on Washington Update

ACTIVISTS FROM AROUND THE United States gathered in Hollywood the weekend of January 18th to plan a massive march on the Nation's capitol. The march, along with direct actions and cultural events, is scheduled for April 25, 1993, and is expected to draw one million people.

The business conducted at the meeting included naming the march, electing a steering committee, developing a platform, and forming the working committees. The official name for the march is the "1993 March on Washington for Lesbian/Gay/Bi Equal Rights and Liberation". The name, chosen through a modified consensus process which included extensive debate, is meant to represent the exact nature and purpose of the march. The term Bi was added in an effort to be more inclusive of those who are self-identified as lesbian, gay, or bisexual. It was decided not to add the term Transgenderal, but the platform includes efforts to recognize the needs and concerns of all sexual minorities.

Planning meetings have been taking place over the past year by an Interim Coordinating Committee (ICC). The ICC disbanded at this meeting, the first which included representatives elected at meetings in 17 regions throughout the country. The next meeting for Region 6 (which includes Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, and Oklahoma) takes place on February 1st at the Dallas

Gay/Lesbian Community Center, 2701 Regan St.

Persons interested in traveling to Dallas for this meeting should call the Pride Line at (713) 529-6979. Carpools and alternative or low-cost accommodations are being arranged. The next national meeting will also be held in Dallas the weekend of May 9-10, 1992, giving the region a chance to influence the planning on a national level and to motivate those who live in the region. Everyone is welcomed and encouraged to attend to take part in the discussions and to volunteer for committees.

The national address is: March on Washington, PO Box 34607, Washington, DC 20043-4607; (800) 832-2889. λ

HL/GPW

The PRIDE newsletter is published by the Houston Lesbian/Gay Pride Week 1992. HL/GPW functions to educate the greater Houston area about Gay and Lesbian people. HL/GPW is a committee under the Montrose Activity Center, Box 66684, Houston, TX 77266-6684. MAC is a 501 (c) (3) non profit organization.

Welcome

Jack Valinski called the meeting to order at approximately 7:08 PM. Meeting notification was printed in This Week in Texas and The New Voice along with 3,500 copies of the Pride Newsletter. The Agenda was presented and accepted. The presentation of minutes were delayed until next meeting because they were not available.

Treasurer's Report

Jim Wunrow handed out the report that was voted upon and passed. Jim also discussed interest in changing banks because of its inaccessibility during the business day for him. A vote was taken and passed to change to First Interstate; however, we will leave the money market account in Central Bank along with some money until all checks have cleared.

Committee Reports

Parade — James Laque presented the 1992 rules. Discussion followed and some minor changes were made. A motion was made and seconded and a vote followed to accept the rules for 1992. James continued on the subject of the parade route. A motion was made that the parade start at Woodhead and proceed east on Westheimer to Whitney. The motion was seconded and passed.

Carol Clark reported that her initial contact with officials at Lanier Middle School was very positive about having a pre-parade pep rally; however, it was later found out that the school will be under construction in June. Carol will investigate further if we could possibly use part of the parking lot or if another place near the beginning of the parade will be practical for such an event. James noted that there will be no separate theme for this year's parade.

Marketing — Bryan Keever

showed some colors for this year's T-shirt that Richard Bang, the designer of the logo, presented for discussion by the members. A vote was taken on using both the green/pink and black/white version for T-shirts and was passed. Bryan continued that he was in the process of getting bids for T-shirts so that they will be available for the February fundraiser.

Pride Guide/Newsletter —

Donn Mumma reported that a 12 page newsletter will be out before the beginning of February. The December newsletter was sent out to 3,500 addresses with the help of Queer Nation and their fundraiser Together We Can. The Guide is in the planning stage. A 42 page 8 1/2 by 11 format is suggested with a color cover with the help of Bob Alban.

Events — Carol reported for

Marla, the forms have been updated for 1992. Marla is in the process of getting bids on the pocket guide. And a community mailout to organizations is planned for mid-February. The package will contain a Parade application, Events application and a letter from the Co-Chairs on community involvement.

Outreach/Media — Diane

Williams reported that she is working on publicizing the February Fundraiser and working on out of town outreach.

Fundraising — Dean Waldrat

reported that the originally planned Beach Party will be moved to April 26th at Pacific Street. A smaller event will be held on February 27th at Pacific Street. Additional events were discussed. Wayne Graebn suggested the Auction be moved to May 3rd to possibly the BRB, the Dance-A-Thon/DJ Spinoff to May 29th and a garage sale at March 21st.

Interview

Urvashi Vaid: Woman of our Years

by Thom Cardwell
San Francisco Sentinel

WITHIN MINUTES OF MEETING gay rights activist Urvashi Vaid, you're hooked. She's immediately accessible. After introductions and handshakes, a lively and challenging discussion about lesbian and gay rights advocacy and AIDS ensues.

As executive director of the National Gay and Lesbian Task Force (NGLTF) since 1989, Vaid has proven articulate, impassioned, knowledgeable and enthusiastic. For all that, however, she manages, in an intimate exchange, to be a warm and humorous person.

This in stark contrast to her more sober public image, crystallized effectively in March of 1990 when at President Bush's first major speech on the AIDS crisis, Vaid standing amidst health-care workers and AIDS activists, raised a placard upon which was written an urgent message demanding that more money be spent on solving the epidemic. While she was being led away from the scene by Secret Service agents, Vaid made the decision then and there to remain committed to her activism, to the tasks of demanding that money be directed toward research and working for broader gay rights legislation.

A self-described follower of Gandhi who abhors violence for any reason, Vaid fights discrimination, homophobia, racism, ignorance and fear with words and ideas. She brings both a sense of urgency and intensity to her leadership of the 17,000-member NGLTF. She applauds the lesbian/gay community for its remarkable period of achievement and cooperation during the last half of the 1980s. Her enthusiasm, though, doesn't go unchecked; she warns lesbians and gays across the nation against taking their leadership for granted and propagating "separatist" issues and for accepting treatment from the mainstream culture "elliptically or anecdotally."

On the AIDS front, she pledges an aggressive agenda for NGLTF. "We must continue pressuring the federal government to be accountable on AIDS," she emphasized. On the civil rights front, she expressed optimism over passage of hate crimes as well as local state lesbian and gay rights legislation. "It's a definite sign of things to come in the 1990s," she said. "But we still have a long way to go."

TC: You were born in New Delhi. When did you come to the United States?

UV: My family moved here from India in 1966. I was eight are and question whether they have to be that way. Then there are other ways in which my ethnic background influences me which I don't even realize.

TC: The concept of family is very strong in your Indian heritage. How does this affect you?

UV: My family is very Indian-identified. They're Hindu. I was raised with the values of Hinduism. That includes a lot of spirituality, especially in the ways that the family is viewed in Hindu society. All of these intangible aspects of upbringing I know affect me. They affect us all, no matter what ethnic and cultural backgrounds we come from. I believe that our families are tremendous influences on us. I think that I'm oblivious to the many ways in which I'm affected by my roots. In some ways, I'm probably hopelessly traditional.

years old. By the time I graduated from Vassar, I had been here most of my life. I just didn't think seriously about moving back to India because this really is home for me.

TC: Do you think that as a person of foreign birth you possess a different perspective about the world-at-large and the United States in particular?

UV: I definitely think that I have an awareness of my ethnic background, since my parents immigrated here so late in their lives. They were in their mid-thirties. Having this ethnic background and also being lesbian has kept me skeptical. I see the way things really

UV: I think that the problems that parents have with our sexuality are universal. My experience is similar to that of many people who I know were born and brought up in this country. While I've never been rejected, disowned or anything like that, it's been a struggle to get them to understand me. I know they don't understand what my lesbianism means to me. My mother has a much more difficult time with my lesbianism than my father. She's quite religious. It's difficult for her to reconcile my lifestyle with her beliefs. She always

NEWS FROM Q-PATROL

Friday Nights in January were very active

As Q-Patrol begins our fourth month of operation, we are beginning to recognize patterns. Patterns such as the fact that more violence seems to occur on Friday nights rather than Saturday nights. In addition, we have observed that rainy weather seems to slow the incidence of gay-bashing. The first two Fridays in the month of January were both cool, clear nights and members of Q-Patrol witnessed an abundance of anti-gay activity on the streets. Most of the activity noted comes from teenagers yelling out of their vehicles. On an average night, Q-Patrol records the license numbers of 14 vehicles, and maintains these numbers in a database, along with descriptions of the passengers, the vehicle, and the nature of the offense.

Areas identified as exceptionally dangerous include:

Fargo St. (between Converse and Stanford)
Crocker St. (between Fairview and W. Drew)
Pacific at Hopkins (thugs hide out in the abandoned house)

During the month of January, Q-Patrol was responsible for notifying and assisting HPD in the arrests of three men who were driving through the area, firing shots at people on the street. HPD officers discovered two handguns and two baseball bats inside their vehicle. Q-Patrol was also responsible for notifying and assisting HPD in the arrest of an armed purse-snatcher, who was initially seen sprinting East-bound on Pacific St. at Whitney, just after stealing a woman's purse at gunpoint.

Q-PATROL Q & A

Q: What is Q-Patrol?

A: Q-Patrol is an organization of volunteers dedicated to slowing the rate of hate crimes committed against gay men and lesbians.

Q: What area is covered by the Q-Patrol?

A: Currently, we cover an area bounded by Waughcrest, Taft, Westheimer and Welch. In the future, we hope to have enough volunteers to cover a larger area that would include nightclubs such as Rich's, Venture-N, Gentry and Mothers.

Q: When does Q-Patrol operate?

A: We operate on Friday and Saturday nights between the hours of 11pm and 3am, and on special holidays.

Q: How does Q-Patrol work?

A: Q-Patrol hits the streets with a combination of foot-patrols and mobile patrols. Both are equipped with CB radios, and at least one of the mobile units is equipped with a cellular telephone. Foot patrols are made up of a group of 5 to 9, and mobile units carry 2 to 3 volunteers. We act as "eyes and ears" of the community, reporting unlawful and suspicious activity to HPD, or the Harris County Constables. We also maintain a database of license numbers of suspicious vehicles seen in the area.

Q: What can I do to help Q-Patrol?

A: Q-Patrol needs volunteers who can serve at least one 4-hour shift per month. We also need donations to cover the purchase of additional radio equipment, tee-shirts, magnetic signs, and printing costs. If you can help with your money or your time, please call Mark Gartner at 645-5252 or Keith Stewart at 524-5110.

Thank You...

Q-Patrol members would like to thank Suzanne Anderson of Suzanne Anderson Properties for the kind donation of additional radio equipment for our foot patrol. It is with donations such as this one that allow us to continue our fight against hate crimes. Thank you, Suzanne for your expression of support! We encourage our members and readers to support businesses who support us. If you are looking for a home or apartment, please call Suzanne and let her help you! Her office number is 529-8484.

FUND RAISER BEING PLANNED

A fund-raiser for Q Patrol is being planned for Sunday, February 16th at the BRAZOS RIVER BOTTOM. This event will help raise money for additional radio equipment, magnetic door signs, and printed materials. We gratefully acknowledge the kind assistance of Mr. Larry Garrett and the TGRA for their assistance in putting this together. For additional information about this event, call Keith Stewart at 524-5110.

HATCH GROUP & QUEER NATION TO HOST A SOCIAL EVENT

The Houston Area Teen Coalition of Homosexuals (HATCH) will join with QUEER NATION to host a Roller Skating party at the Carousel Roller Rink on Tuesday evening, February 11th. This event will be a fund-raiser for HATCH & QN/Houston. For additional information, call Tracy Brown at 524-4657.

This issue of QueerNews was composed and underwritten by Mark Gartner, Keith Stewart, Stephen Tompkins, David Westerkamp, and other members of Q-Patrol. For Q-Patrol information, Contact 524-5110, or 645-5252.

says that I'm her daughter and that she'll never stop loving me but that she'll never accept my sexual orientation either. That's painful. But I feel lucky that the door isn't closed. We've continued to interact with each other. Secretly, I keep hoping that by the time my hair turns completely gray my parents will have accepted me fully for who I am. While I laugh it off at times, it remains painful. It's the same for a lot of lesbians and gay men. Sometimes it becomes painful on the most mundane level—you know, like when you and your lover want to visit your parents.

TC: Do your parents approve of your activism?

UV: They don't understand why I work for the gay rights movement no matter how many times I explain it. They understand that there's discrimination and that there's a civil rights movement trying to correct it. They raised me to be politically aware, to have opinions and to become involved. But now they keep saying that I'm throwing away my education and my career opportunities as a lawyer. Besides being parental, they want me to pursue the good life with all those middle-class values. My father is much more willing to talk with me about the work that I do. He's quite excited about all the attention I'm getting. Especially when I'm in the newspapers. It was really amazing that some of the international news wires picked up my being named The Advocate's "Woman of the Year." That news made it all the way to India. I thought it was pretty amazing, and it excited my parents, too.

TC: Is there open lesbian/gay life in India?

UV: There isn't much. In Bombay, New Delhi and some other parts of the country there is some organizing of Indian lesbians and gays. Right now it's being centered around AIDS policies which are currently quite repressive within the government. They have already instituted bans on people with HIV traveling in India, with more horrible and senseless legislation awaiting passage. The government isn't willing to educate the population on AIDS. It's very sad. Whenever I get publicity in Indian newspapers, I usually receive a burst of letters from people who are very isolated and stuck in marriages. I always try to put them in touch with Trikone, a newsletter published in San Jose that does a lot to knit lesbian and gay South Asians and Sri Lankans. In London and throughout England, there's more networking among the South Asian lesbian and gay community.

TC: Tell me something about your punk rock activities back in Boston.

UV: Punk was always extremely political. It was a statement against bland homogenous rock-'n-roll. It took a very countercultural stand against commercialism. That was during its initial period. Later it became commercialized itself, as most things do. But I guess I see it as a political period. What can I tell you? This is part of Urvashi—she likes rock-'n-roll. I think Outweek made a bigger deal about my musical involvement than it was. Now that I speak about it, though, it is a very big part of my personal history. It shaped my attitudes. To this day, I think that I still have punk attitudes in my politics.

TC: Were there any particular influences in your life then?

UV: Probably the greatest influence in my life at that time was the rock singer Patti Smith. She became a major influence for me in the same way that reading Dialectic of Sex and feminism changed my life. Patti Smith was a real role model for me. When I heard her album Horses, back in 1975, I remember thinking here's a woman who is strong, brave, prophetic in her voice. She was terrific and androgynous. Influenced by Jim Morrison and, Janis Joplin, she opened a lot of doors for women in music. She was a very political poet, too, who had a great deal to say about the power of freedom and the power of the imagination. So she appealed to me for many reasons.

TC: Could you elaborate about the imagery in "The Sexual Outlaw?"

UV: I don't know where to begin. It's such a huge topic. All lesbian and gay people are sexual outlaws. Our sexuality is so marginalized in this and every other society; no matter how "vanilla" our basic sexual behavior is, no matter how ordinary we seem to find our sexuality, the world views us as outcasts and outlaws. I really think that's the source of the tension within our own community. It's a tension between those who are saying that we're all "queer" and the others who are saying that we're just "gay" and "lesbian." The tension is between the notions of legitimacy and assimilation, versus liberation and "otherness." There are those who believe we should use our experience as "others" and "outsiders" to transform those institutions that have shunned us. That argument says we shouldn't want to become 'insiders.' That's what I heard from people at Queer Nation, from their chant: "We're here, we're queer. Get over it!" Philosophically, that's their stand. The other school of thought espouses that we're just like everybody else, except for our sexual orientation, that we're as radical, as mainstream, as conservative and as middle-class as anybody who is straight. This may be my Indian upbringing again but I can see value in both arguments. Lesbians and gays are very much in all segments of society. We have many of the same aspirations as our heterosexual counterparts. Not all of us are radicals, sexual outlaws and conservatives. Not all of us are any one thing. We're just all over.

TC: How does your involvement in heading a national political organization affect your personal life?

UV: Actually, that's an important question. It's very hard to have a personal life and a movement life. I find that I'm working all the time, traveling all over the country, working on the weekends, too, at fundraisers, conferences and protest rallies. I'm always thinking about the tremendous advocacy and lobbying work I have to do. You can never close the door to that responsibility. It's work that I love. This work is about freedom, my own and everyone else's. Our community is in such a crisis. It's difficult not to feel a great sense of urgency. AIDS was an incredible motivator for large numbers of gay people, and it continues to work that way for me. All of this means that there isn't much time. Luckily, I'm madly in love. I'm living with a comedia; Kate approaches politics quite differently from me as a lobbyist. She makes me laugh. She influences my thinking. She gives me good advice. Sometimes she just has to say to me, "Get real, stop being so serious every minute of the day." Being around an artist all the time definitely affords me a comic—and irreverent—perspective on the trials and tribulations of life. That's good for me, since working in the lesbian and gay movement is so demanding. Preserving ourselves is a real challenge. λ
