

SATURDAY, MARCH 24TH NINA FLOWERS

Nina Flowers brings a triple threat of talent to venues across the globe: an infectious understanding of how to bring music alive on the dance floor, a powerfully engaging connection to the audience, and a character transformation through makeup that can be matched by none. Nina Flowers stormed the scene on RuPaul's Drag Race. Nina was the winner of the first of many competitions on the show. Always displaying talent, charisma, creativity & most importantly humbleness, Nina made it all the way to the finale with the title of Runner-Up.

The Thrill of Film (in Texas)

By Kimberly A. Suta

JiveTown pic features Michael Sorrells, Agosto Cuellar and Theo Gutierrez

Texas icons such as Robert Rodriguez and Richard Linklater may make filmmaking in Texas seem like a piece of cake, but the reality is that producing a film anywhere, much less in Texas, is an extremely formidable endeavor and only the most fearless, stupid or crazy dare even try. Now, try to make a movie with a gay or lesbian character in it and you might as well try your luck at Russian roulette – you’d have better odds.

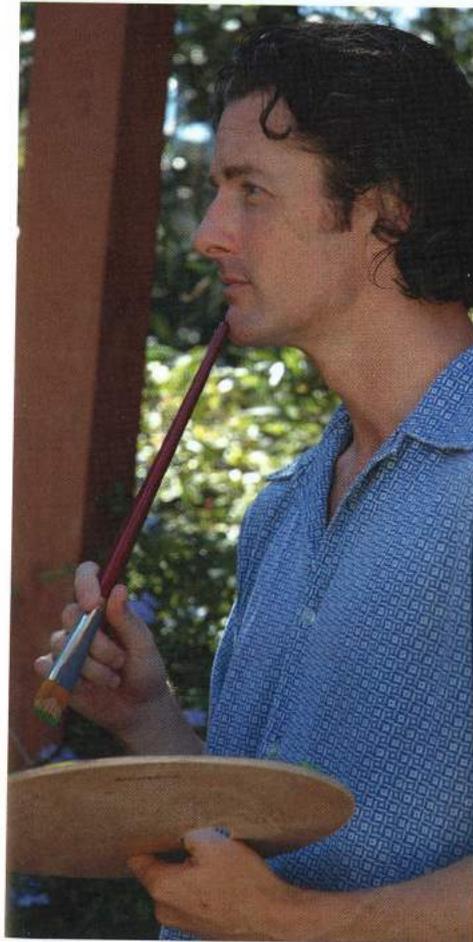

I suppose I must be one of the crazy ones because I’ve been working on producing smart, unique film projects with LGBT characters for the last few years. If Texas is a conservative state, then San Antonio is probably the most conservative metropolitan city in the state, and probably not the best place to launch a grassroots campaign for a web series about a middle-aged Hispanic gay fashion designer who owns a vintage store, smokes a lot of pot and battles his neurosis as well as his customers on a daily basis. As the series is based on a real person who is something of a local celebrity, I was hopeful San Antonio might embrace this quirky little show called JiveTown (www.jivetownsa.blogspot.com). Much to my dismay, we’ve had a greater response from outside of S.A., even outside of Texas. Some of our biggest fans are actually from New York. Still, I hold on to the vision that amazing LGBT stories can be supported by the Texas community.

We are currently in the process of seeking investors for a fantasy-drama feature film called Ekstasis – about a successful painter named Jacob who, after losing his family in a car accident, meets a 3,600-year-old immortal alchemist who calls herself Ekstasis (imagine a regal but still sexy Angelina Jolie or Cate Blanchett). Ekstasis makes Jacob an offer that in exchange for one year of his life, he can actually re-live a memory from his past. Who wouldn’t risk just about anything to have the chance to see their loved one(s) again, if only for a moment? Jacob soon discovers that Ekstasis’ first love was a woman whose life she risked for the power of immortality. One of the most fun characters in story is Jacob’s gay art rep, Martin – a role which is being considered by one of Texas’ most successful gay comedians, Jade Esteban Estrada (www.getjaded.com).

As with any film project, the Ekstasis script has been through many revisions. Originally, the role of Ekstasis was cast as a black man until my co-producer had a dream and convinced me that Ekstasis was, in fact, supposed to be a woman. It took me a few days to wrap my head around that one, but then I saw the brilliance of a strong lead female Ekstasis. It opened up an exciting opportunity to entice an A-list actress to take the role. We still believe, once funded, it’s a very viable possibility, considering only one in every 40 feature films has a lead female role. With other fabulously talented cast and crew attached to the project, such as Sean Maxwell, who works with Robert Rodriguez on all his films as well as dozens of feature films and TV Shows (Breaking Bad, Eastbound & Down); Caroline Miller, the Costume Designer who won an Academy Award for The Blind Side; and one of Austin’s hottest actors, Michael Sorrells (think young George Clooney) who has been cast as Jacob. I think it’s safe to say that everyone will be looking forward to the nude painting scene. Incidentally, Sorrells, also plays the JiveTown store manager who is ensconced firmly in the closet. Go to this website to see the original demo, which was part of the Ekstasis prospectus: <http://vimeo.com/9591867>

People often wonder why I continue to tough it out in Texas, against all odds. Is it merely because I can't stand L.A. smog and bronzed superficiality, I'm unforgivably stubborn or can't help rooting for the underdog, even when it's myself? It's a good question with probably more answers than my TWIT editor gave me space to write. All I can say is that there are two things I know for sure. One is that Texas is rich with resources. The locations here alone will blow your socks off. Most people in the industry know that you can pretty much make any kind of movie here - from a good ole western to a Sci-Fi. Anyone see Predators? We found the perfect spot to recreate ancient Germany for Ekstasis right along the river, just South of Austin at Spiderwood Studios. The second thing I know is that the LGBT market is growing, not slowing. All major corporations already know this, and I figure eventually San Antonio as well as any other short-sighted and ignorant pockets of this state will eventually be motivated to take the sticks out of their asses by the one thing they truly care about - and yes, unfortunately, that's money, not equality.

For those of you who have a burning desire to break into the biz, the best way to get started is to jump in with both feet. Although I have a communications degree and have been writing since I had a Hello Kitty journal in first grade, I had zero experience or education in film until, one day, my friend said, "Hey, write a Noir short, and I'll film it." My friend dropped out of the project so I ended up producing the film on my own and that was all it took to catch the bug. My personal belief is there's no better way to learn something than to just do it, even if you do it badly at first.

Eventually, you'll either get better or move on to something else. As one of my colleagues once told me, "Cream always rises to the top." So if you don't have the scratch to go to film school, I suggest connecting via Facebook or other social media outlets with other budding filmmakers in your industry and just start shooting. Most cities now host a 48-hour film festival, which I finally participated in this year. It was a blast and a great way to network. If you want to break in to acting, start out by being an extra. Check out Craigslist or contact your local casting agents and have them put you on their mailing lists. Get a friend to take a headshot of you that you can send out, and again, connect with the people in your community who are doing what you want to be doing. You never know - you might be the next Robert Rodriguez or George Clooney. At least, we can dream!

In the Kitchen

by Blue Jean Granny

Hi there Boys and Girls,

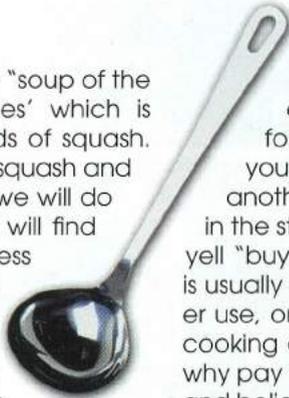

Do you have a desire to stop eating all of your meals at the local fast food or diner, but unsure about giving cooking a try. Cooking your own meals has lots of advantages; not the least of which is the satisfaction of sitting down to a meal you have prepared yourself. Your plate will have only the foods you like, or maybe just want to give a try, and you'll have the advantage of knowing just what is in it.

You do not have to get the "soup of the day" or "mixed vegetables" which is probably two or three kinds of squash. Don't get me wrong I love squash and within the next few weeks we will do a squash dish, I know you will find yourself enjoying the process of putting your own meal together. As you get familiar with cooking you will want to add your own touches to a dish. Recipes are written on paper not in stone. I have always heard and truly believe there are no new recipes only redeveloped recipes.

Now before we actually get to the cooking part, we need to discuss the "tools" you will need in your kitchen. Of course you know you will need pots and pans. I like the ones with heavy bottoms, your food cooks better and does not burn so easily. Buy the best you can afford, and only the ones you think you will need, you can always add another. A lot of the sets you will find in the stores will look lovely and almost yell "buy me, buy me". However, there is usually a least one piece you will never use, or not until you have a lot more cooking experience under your belt, so why pay for them. Pick your own pieces, and believe it or not they do not have to match. Save that money for your table settings.

After the pots and pans, buy knives. Buy good knives. Pick them up and hold them. Are they comfortable in your hand. Do they have enough weight to assist you in their use yet not too heavy to make your hand tired when using them? Get good quality, you will want to sharpen them often. A dull knife is not only hard to use...it's dangerous. You will want a chefs knife, a long serrated knife, and a couple of paring knives (one stubby length blade, on blade longer) to start your collection, and a pair of kitchen shears.

Here's a hint for you. Anytime you go to a home and garden show, a rodeo, food demos you will usually find a booth giving away little paring knives just for spending a few minutes listening to what they are selling. Great time spent. These little knives that have plastic handles, light weight and very thin blades are the favorite ones in my drawer. They are sharp (and stay that way for a long, long time) and very easy to use. Pick them up and if you get any you don't want you can send them to me. You will also want to buy a knife sharpener.

Then comes the measuring cups (both liquid and dry), measuring spoons, rubber bowl scrapers the kind that withstand heat so you can also use them for stirring food while cooking, spatulas for turning meat and eggs, long meat fork, tongs, and get a food thermometer. This column could go on and on with kitchen items. In fact many items could almost be a column in itself.

You are smart, just use your head. Just because someone, including me, tells you, you need so and so, if you do not see a need for it, don't buy it, you can always get it later. Setting up a kitchen is an expensive project, so remember rule of thumb buy only the best you can afford at the time. Good tools work better and last longer. You will find many tools have more than one use. Also you have a sink in your kitchen; you can quickly wash off a pan, a measuring cup, etc and use it again.

When shopping, be sure and check out your discount stores and your restaurant supply stores. Stay away from the flimsy plastic kitchen accessories you find at your dollar stores. It's not fun to fry hamburgers with a plastic spatula and have it melt or not be strong enough to pick up the patty. If you have specific questions let me know and I will do my best to address them. Until next time, remember to work smart, play hard and take time out for a cookie.

THE RETURN OF THE GAY PIMP

By Benjamin Burt

THE GAYEST OF ALL TIME continues Jonny McGovern's journey into the fabulous fairyland where queens rule, glamour is celebrated, every street is a fashion runway and every corner a dance club.

THE GAYEST OF ALL TIME continues Jonny McGovern's journey into the fabulous fairyland where queens rule, glamour is celebrated, every street is a fashion runway and every corner a dance club.

It's been ten years since McGovern - affectionately known to fans as The Gay Pimp - released his first music album, Dirty Gay Hits, a collection of hilarious gay themed songs. It included "Soccer Practice", the song that would make Jonny an international phenomenon after its music video was spread virally by e-mail to millions. Youtube didn't exist at the time.

The music video introduced the world to the colorful antics of Jonny "The Gay Pimp" McGovern and his queer posse, dubbed "Team Pimp". It was added to MTV Europe and MTV Asia and helped land Jonny a role as a commentary contributor on several VHI shows including Best Week Ever, Totally Gay, and 40 Dumbest Celebrity Quotes. It also earned him a slot on Comedy Central's all-gay stand-up show Out on the Edge, hosted by Alan Cumming, which brought him to the attention of Rosie O'Donnell, who cast Jonny as a lead player on her LOGO-TV comedy show, The Big Gay Sketch Show.

A slew of comedy-music albums followed, including This is NYC, Bitch! The East Village Mixtape, Gays Gone Wild, KEEP IT FAGGITY: THE GAY PIMP REMIX PROJECT, and last year's GAY PIMP.

His latest, THE GAYEST OF ALL TIME, was made possible by the generous donations of Gay Pimp fans who raised over 13 thousand dollars for the project. Jonny has used the funds to create music videos for four of the singles featured on the album: "Sexy Nerd", "Modified", "Dickmatized" and "Man Areas". All can be viewed on Youtube.com.

In the coming months, he plans to produce another three music videos. So sit back and buckle yourselves in for a wild ride. Everyone's favorite Gay Pimp Daddy, Jonny McGovern, is back, bigger and dirtier than ever.

When will The Gay Pimp grow up?

Jonny McGovern: Jonny McGovern has grown up quite a bit. Gay Pimp is still just frolicking down the street with some go-go hoes and he always will. But he's got a rockin' beard now.

You have made a career out of being outrageously gay.

I strive to create music that does that expresses gay sexuality and desire in a cheeky, fun and unapologetic way. Some people criticize my songs for being too sexual or making gays look bad but I also get emails from teenagers who tell me my music gave them the confidence to come out and helped them to see gay sexuality as not something to be ashamed of or swept under the rug, but to be celebrated.

Did you always celebrate your gayness?

I certainly went through my own period of denial in my teens. I had no gay role models around to tell me it was ok and cool even to be different; that being gay would be something I eventually wouldn't trade for anything in the world. I certainly could have used some Jonny McGovern songs back then to let me know that "Likin' Big Dicks" was a-ok.

Does everybody really want to be G.A.Y., as you say on the album?

The song "G.A.Y" does have a lot of truth to it. Especially in the last few years, a lot of what is huge in pop culture has been heavily influenced by gay club and ballroom culture. From Tyra inspiring girls to be fierce to Rihanna and, of course, Lady Gaga performing straight up drag queen style to even the Jersey Shore dudes and their obsession with muscles and tans. Gay influence is everywhere.

How has your idea of dirty gay fun

Soccer Practice muscle jocks do not?

Unlike a muscle jock who puts it all out there, a sexy nerd sort of has their sexuality bubbling under the surface which is even more fun when you get to the bedroom and they let it out. Plus the idea of someone who is smart and sexy and who can do dirty gay stuff with you and then whisper in your ear, "Now I'm gonna fix yer computer" is especially erotic.

Tell us about your new single, #TOTDF.

I came up with #TOTDF (Texting on the Dance Floor) standing in the middle of a club in LA. Looking around, I saw all these guys rockin' to the music while texting on their phones! It made me think about how things are today. People gather in big groups but spend their time on their phones reading a blog, checkin' out their Grindr, tweeting and tagging people they are with on Facebook. #TOTDF celebrates all that and also mocks the insanity of it.

What's your take on mobile technology?

I love my phone and computer like everybody else. But long gone are the days when you can pretend you're not available 'cause every damn message is sent right to the phone in our pockets.

Is it killing nightlife?

The constant availability of sexy gentleman is certainly convenient but it is taking its toll on nightlife. People used to have to go out to meet people. Now you can order dick right up to yer front door and never have to actually go out and talk to anyone.

What's the biggest misperception people have about the Gay Pimp?

I think a lot of times people take what I am doing too seriously. All my songs are meant to be taken with a wink. I don't take myself seriously as a pop star or think that I'm really a gay pimp. I'm a comedian and it's all jokes to me. What I have done with my music, beginning with "Soccer Practice", is to flip the su-evolved in the ten years since "Soccer Practice"?

While I have grown as a person and performer over the last ten years, my idea of dirty gay fun remains the same. Gimme a dark bar, some amazing beats, drag queens turning it out on the runway and tons of sexy dudes and I am happy. But what I think is sexy has broadened. While I still love a dirty frat boy on a soccer team, I am also attracted to other types of homos, like bearded tatted up daddies or sexy nerds.

Would you have sung about sexy nerds ten years ago?

As an artist who originated on the internet, I have always depended on the kindness of nerds. Technology, how we communicate and how we get content to an audience, has grown so much and so fast that without a few good nerds, I'd be up the gay creek without a gay paddle. Ten years ago, I checked my email once a week. Now we have email on our phones and we're all constantly checking the web and tapping apps. I find someone who is master of all that extremely sexy.

Thanks to guys like Darren Cris, 2012 may just be the year of the sexy gay nerd. What do nerds offer that the Soc-per masculine elements and images of straight pop culture and pop music and give 'em a subversive dirty gay twist. If yer truly offended by it you should lighten the fuck up.

Speaking of being offensive... do you worry that "Modified" might be seen as offensive to middle-aged housewives?

It shouldn't. "Modified" is kind of an anthem for doing things yer own way and fuckin' what everybody else thinks. I've only gotten mad love from all the middle age ladies that have heard the song. I've been getting reports that aerobics teachers are even playing it in their classes. People tweet me all the time to tell me they're at the gym, doin' it "Modified"!

Where did the idea for "Modified" come from?

When I first moved to Hollywood, I tagged along with comedian Nadya Ginsburg to her aerobics class at the Hollywood YMCA. The class was very intense and everyone was giving it their all. Then I noticed this fabulous creature in the front row: a middle-aged lady with a high Madonna Truth or Dare style pony tail, super tight spandex body suit and leg warmers. She was doing all the moves the class was doing but in the most relaxed way. She was doing everything "Modified" which is aerobics speech for doing things low impact. I was obsessed with her spunk. I went home and wrote a song about her. Then Nadya and I collaborated on an amazing music video where Melanie Hutsell (from Saturday Night Live and Bridesmaids) starred as "Modified" and lots of LA nightlife superstars like Jackie Beat, Calpernia Addams and Mario Diaz made cameos.

Are your songs based on reality or fantasy?

Though they're obvious fantasy, most songs do have a nugget of truth in them.

Have you ever truly been "Dickma-tized"?

There was a dude I was hooking up with who was so sexy and so good in bed that it didn't matter to me how wrong he was for me. He kept telling me things that should have sent up red flags. He was still dating someone back in New York, he was unemployed, a hooker - but that dick was so good! I'd be cooking in the kitchen or getting ready for a show, having dirty gay flashbacks like one of them ho's on LOST. I continued texting him for sexy times. I eventually had to delete his number from my phone cause I realized I was truly "dickmatized".

So you wrote a song about it?

You bet and when it came out so many people, ladies included, told me about their own experiences of being "Dickmatized" by the wrong sexy guy. There's even a video on Youtube where Jill Scott talks about being dickmatized.

The video gloriously depicts the whole "Gay Pimp World" you have created.

The world I created was a combination of all the things I loved as a young gay living in NYC through my 20's and early thirties: the drag queens, the bangin' beats and all the go-go boys....

It's almost a gay Disneyland. Has it become real life for you?

I've definitely had my moments where real life is a lil' like my music videos. I certainly do hang out with drag queens and go-go boys and if ya get a couple cocktails in me, I get a bit of that "gay pimp" swag. I rarely break in to song while walking down the street, though.

What have you learned in the ten years you have been in the entertainment business?

Not to wait for permission to create my work: to just do it. Not to wait for someone else to create opportunities for me: to make them myself. To surround myself with the greatest and gayest, most creative people I can and collaborate with them. Share the spotlight with those you love. And definitely don't make crazy drag queens angry.

What's next for The Gay Pimp?

I'm shooting two pilots: a TV version of my long running "Gay Pimpin'" podcast and a making of the video show called "Jonny McGovern's Super Gay Video Project". It will feature other gay artists and their videos. I'll soon be releasing a "Gayest Of All Time" video special featuring all the sexy dudes and queens from all the music videos. Plus more music videos... and I'm preparing to perform my stand up and songs all over the country. I'm comin' to yer town and I'mma make sweet lurve to ya.

Aries March 21 April 19

Your intentions are grand, pure and honest. However, differentiating reality from fantasy is an uncomfortable challenge for you. Once a guideline is established at work, you follow rules precisely and punctually. But being the organizer isn't your strong suit. You work best with others and in collaborative efforts. Solo activities scatter your focus, scare you. You're a terrific follower, but not a leader.

Taurus April 20 May 20

Possessions bring you pleasure, when you see something you want to own, you work very hard to get it, and will fight anyone from taking anything away from you. Although not a materialist, you believe what's yours is yours. It's not easy for you to slow down, because your mind is in constant motion. Establish definite objective, and construct a positive plan for actuating them.

Gemini May 21 June 20

Your employment requires clear guidelines and rules because you're not expert at improvising, or doing anything on the fly. You're a terrific team player and follower of rules, but not great at delegating or making decisions. You must keep careful watch on their feelings so as not to become embittered by occasional setbacks. Learn how to budget both time and expenses because impulse shopping and sloppy bill paying come easy.

Cancer June 21 July 22

It's difficult for you to reach agreements with coworkers because you state your opinions so enthusiastically and are so eager to move forward that you often ignore assistance, but never protocol. Nonetheless, your independent and rational mind is rarely influenced by emotions. Brainstorm with others, slow down and listen to what they have to say. Facts and figures are not your expertise.

Leo July 23 August 22

You have good reasoning ability, know when to make concessions and are mellow in the role of mediator. You respond to people honestly and your enthusiasm stimulates them to respond in kind. Always practical with personal investments, you have healthy respect for time and material things and have little difficulty putting aside for rainy days or planning future financial investments.

Virgo August 23 September 22

You're hyper ready to get a job completed, work hard and know what you can and cannot do. However, your enthusiasm often finds you accepting gigs before considering the extent of what's necessary, being cautious isn't your strength. Nonetheless, bosses and coworkers respect your diligence and honesty. You always have enough personal savings to get along and usually a great deal more. You make a point of honoring your commitments.

Libra September 23 October 22

It's nearly impossible for coworkers to tell you what to do or how. You are a monster of professional integrity and aplomb. Doing things your way works quite nicely, thank you very much. You appreciate praise and acknowledgement for your efforts on the job but are neither timid nor too humble to ask for it. Instead, you plug away, doing what's expected and usually without too much complaint.

Scorpio October 23 November 21

You're inspired, outspoken and think big, but often overlook important details. Spontaneous and independent, the fear of making a mistake never stands in the way of taking action. However, you learn best in structured environments but not so organized that you lose your freedom to experiment. Even though you prefer to make rules rather than follow them, coworkers acknowledge that you are serious and trustworthy.

Sagittarius November 22 December 21

No one considers you a penny pincher even though you respect everything that money buys, you simply don't spend anything extra, period! You tend to your on the job responsibilities efficiently, thrive on improvisation and cope with things as they come. You're not too bad with facts and figures, are a good bargain shopper and don't spend money foolishly. You're intelligent, curious and practical to a fault.

Capricorn December 22 January 19

You are not a pushover but are easily swayed by coworkers who are louder or prouder which drives you nuts. Since fellow employees know that you're a good worker, and you usually do more than your share, develop more confidence about saying your say and just do the job. Although you perform what's expected from you, you're better at following orders and the rules, rather than barking them.

Aquarius January 20 February 18

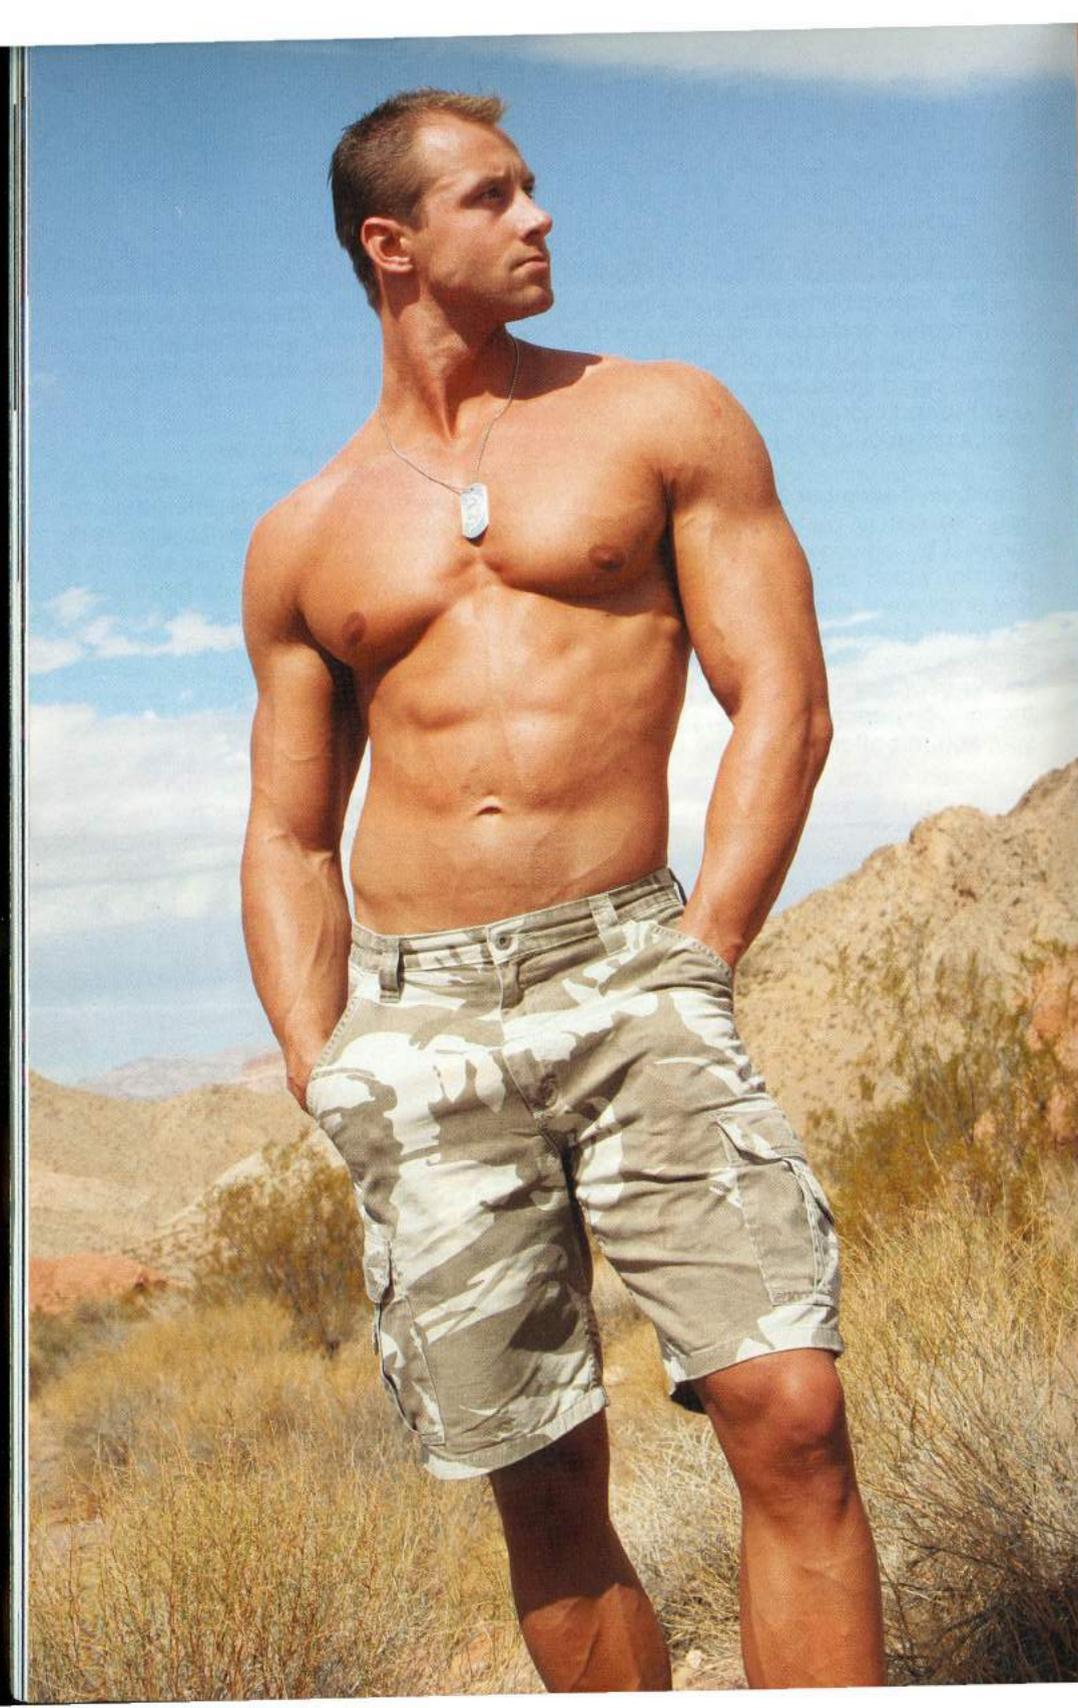

Capable and versatile, you are a high achieving idealist. At work you are pragmatic and highly demanding about punctuality and demonstrate your unique creative thoughts and ideas without expecting applause. Your ability to adapt to new circumstances is outstanding. Time is money for you and you're very clever with personal finances.

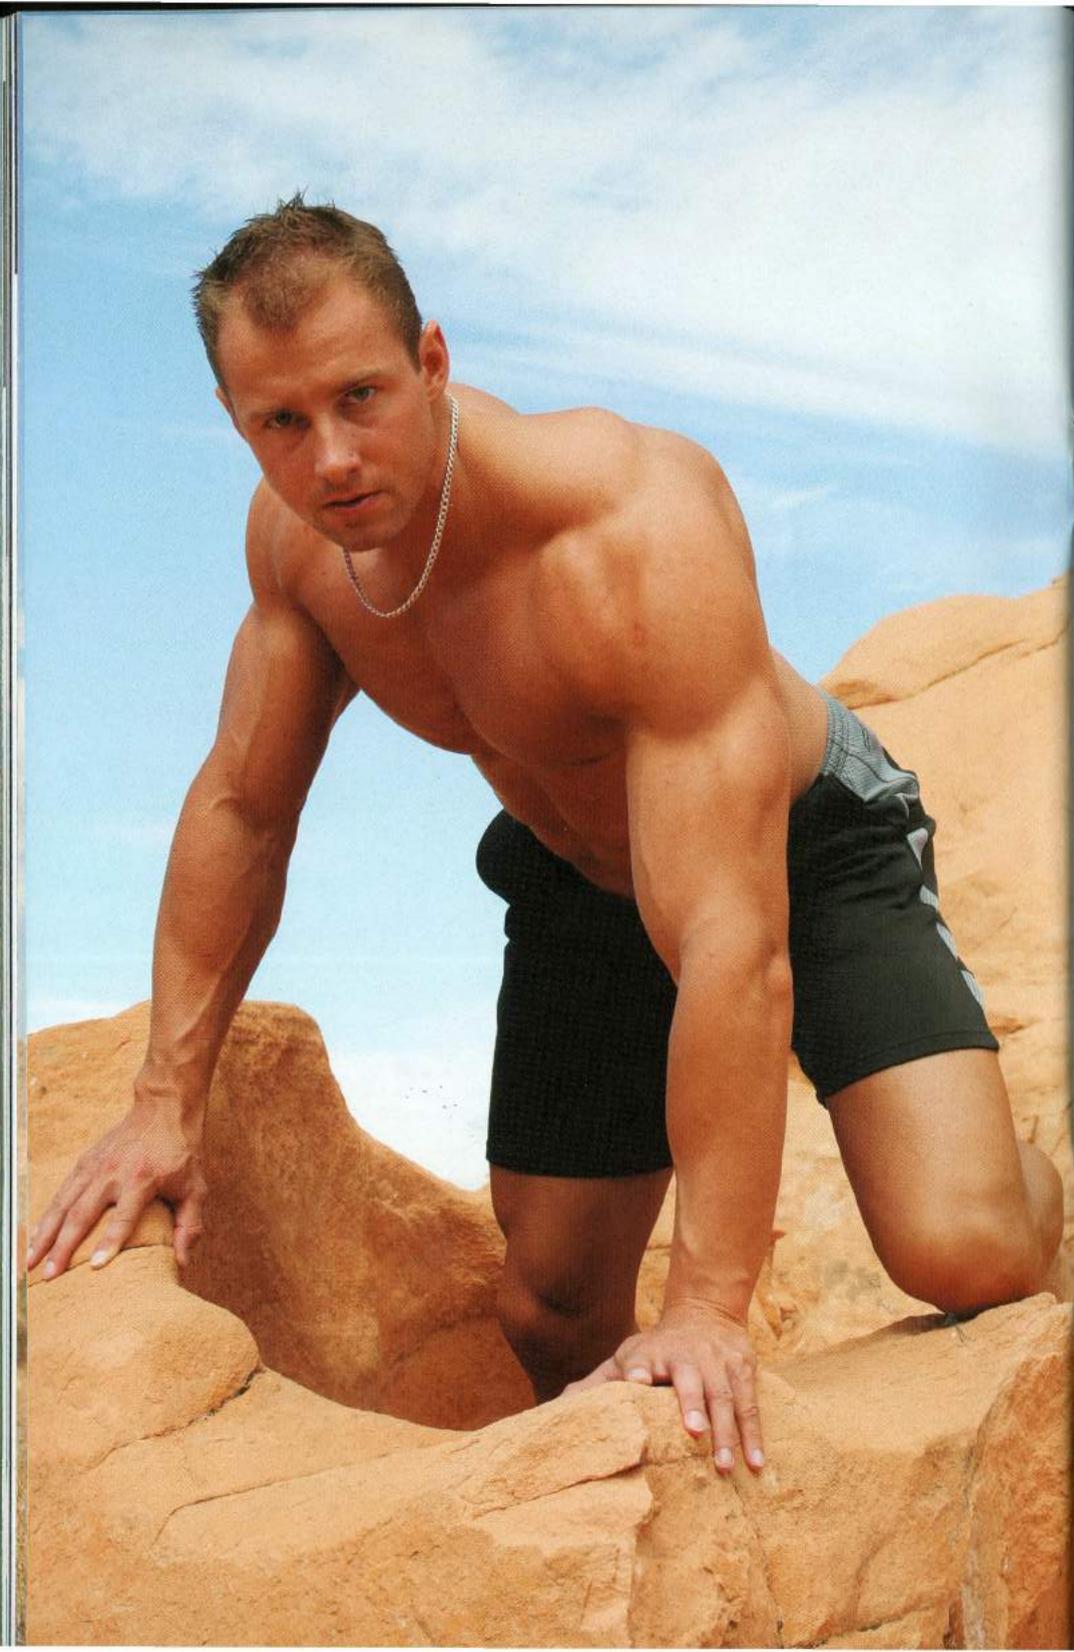

Pisces February 19 March 20

So what if others consider you impractical. You make the world more interesting for everyone. Although not terrific with math or science, you approach your job with a fresh creativity that makes up for any lack of discipline. You have a great deal of curiosity and patiently solve every mystery. However, you have strong opinions and hate to have anyone challenge them. Be careful how you talk with coworkers as you tend to be pushy.

Shoulder Boulder

By Scott Herman

Scott Herman's fitness club, ScottHermanFitness.com, has over 100,000 "Hermanites", as he affectionately calls them, and adds 1,000 more every week. It's a free club, with Scott as personal trainer, providing tips and video to help all Hermanites reach their fitness goals.

Here's his "Shoulder Boulder" routine to build and define your shoulders in four simple exercises. Perform each exercise for 3 sets of 8-10 reps.

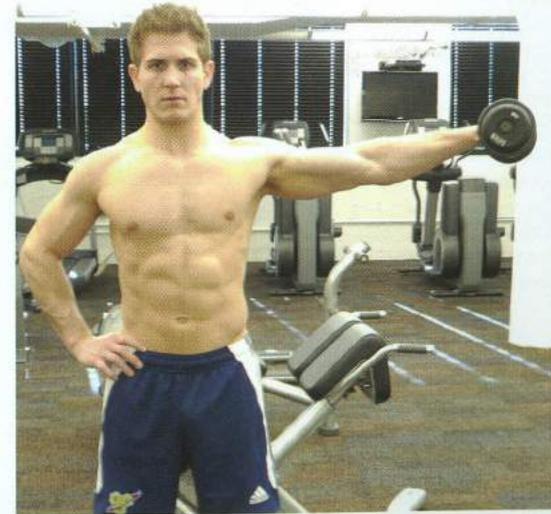

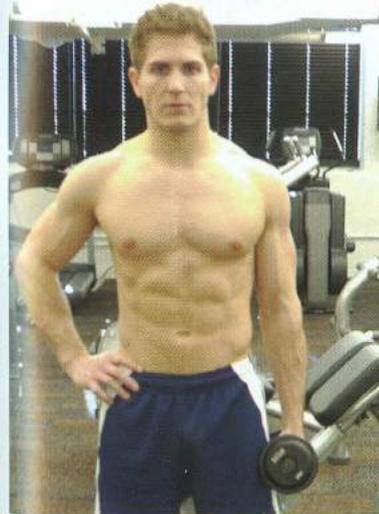

EXERCISE 1: Standing Single-Arm Dumbbell Shoulder Press

Stand with your feet a bit wider than shoulder length apart and a slight bend in your knees. Next, pick up the dumbbells and hold them up by your head so that your arms elbows form 90degree angles. While keeping your head up and core tight, extend one arm to the ceiling. Once fully extended, lower arm back to 90 degrees and repeat with the other arm. Breathe OUT as you extend your arm.

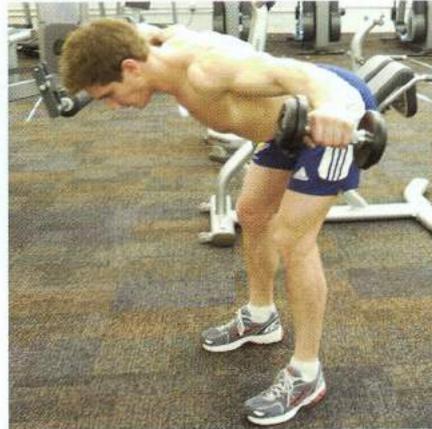

EXERCISE 2: Single-Arm Dumbbell Lateral Raise

Stand with your feet a bit wider than shoulder length apart and a slight bend in your knees. Rest one hand on your hip and hold the dumbbell in the other. As you keep your head up and core tight, proceed to raise the dumbbell away from your body. Stop once your arm is horizontal to the ground. Hold for 2-3 seconds and then bring your arm back down by your side. Breathe out as you raise your arm and complete a full set with one arm before moving to the other one.

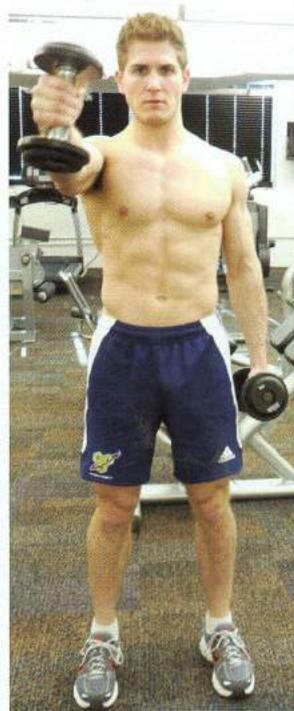

EXERCISE 3:
Dumbbell Bent-Over Raise

Stand with your feet a bit wider than shoulder length apart and a slight bend in your knees. While holding the dumbbells bend over so your body is almost horizontal to the ground while maintaining an arched back. Next, as you keep your head up, core tight, and a slight bend on your elbows; begin to raise the dumbbells away from your body. Hold the movement at the top for 2-3 seconds. Breathe out as you raise the dumbbells.

EXERCISE 4:
Dumbbell Front Raise

Stand with your feet a bit wider than shoulder length apart and a slight bend in your knees. Hold both dumbbells in your hands. Next, keep your head up and your core as tight as you can as you raise one dumbbell, palm facing in, forward and away from your body. Hold your arm in the extended position for 2-3 seconds before lowering it back to your body. Once by your side, repeat with the other arm. Breathe out as you raise your arm.

Recipe for Chicken Pot Pie

www.ScottHermanFitness.com

Scott Herman works out 5-6 days a week, clocking in two hours in the gym each day. He eats every 2-3 hours, maintaining a high carb diet of pasta, bagels, and rice, along with grilled chicken. He dips his bagels in peanut butter for extra protein. He also utilizes Syntha-6, a protein supplement, and multivitamins for added nutrients.

Chicken pot pie is one of my ABSolute favorite meals! I can eat it every day. Seriously! Eating right doesn't have to be boring, just smart. So be smart and plan your meals throughout the day so you can enjoy this delicious and healthy dinner!

Preparation time: 20 minutes
Cook time: 55 minutes

INGREDIENTS:

*1 ½ pounds of boneless, skinless, chicken breasts, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup frozen corn kernels, 1 cup frozen peas
1 cup frozen small white onions, 2 medium carrots peeled and thinly sliced
1 cup nonfat half and half, 6 tablespoons all purpose flour, 1 tablespoon margarine,
¼ teaspoon black pepper, 1 refrigerated pie crust (15 oz. package), 1 egg white, lightly beaten with 1 teaspoon water*

INSTRUCTIONS:

1. Bring to a boil, chicken breasts and ¼ teaspoon salt, in a large saucepan over medium heat.
Reduce heat and gently poach chicken til juices run clear (about 15 minutes)
Transfer chicken to cutting board and cool, then cut into bite sized pieces. Reserve 2 cups of poaching liquid.

2. Preheat oven to 425 degrees. Lightly coat pie pan with nonstick cooking spray and baking sheet as well.

3. Dust work surface lightly with flour and roll out pie crust to about 1/8 inch.

4. Cook carrots in boiling water until tender (about 5 minutes) drain. Rinse frozen vegetables with warm water; drain. Whisk half and half and flour in small bowl until smooth. Melt margarine in medium saucepan over medium heat. Whisk in half and half mixture and then reserved poaching liquid. Cook until sauce thickens and boils, (about 5 minutes). Stir in carrots, chicken, corn, peas, onions, black pepper and remaining salt. Cook til heated through (about 3 minutes). Pour into pie pan and then place crust on top of those ingredients and secure the edges with thumb and forefinger. Brush the top of pie crust with egg white mixture and cut several small holes in crust. Bake in oven on baking sheet (in case, boil over) til the pastry is light golden brown. (about 15 minutes).

TWIT DJ Spotlight

DJ "Musicman" Shawn

The Silver Dollar Saloon has been owned by the same family since 1985 and is very committed to the LGBT Community. He helps and sees first hand how The Silver Dollar Saloon has helped raise money for Gay Pride, many people, and organizations who reach out to them for donations. The following is DJ "Musicman" Shawn's Top 10 Playlist/ Requests for the week of March 4th - March 10th:

- 1) Cumbia Sampuesana- Aniceto Molina
- 2) Wepa- Gloria Estefan
- 3) Bizzare Love Triangle- New Order
- 4) Wobble- V.I.C.
- 5) La Inconforme- Massore
- 6) Fantasy Girl- Johnny O
- 7) Amor Con Amor- Mazz
- 8) Rabiosa- Shakira
- 9) Amame Besame- Diana Reyes
- 10) Dame Tu Corazon- Jay Perez

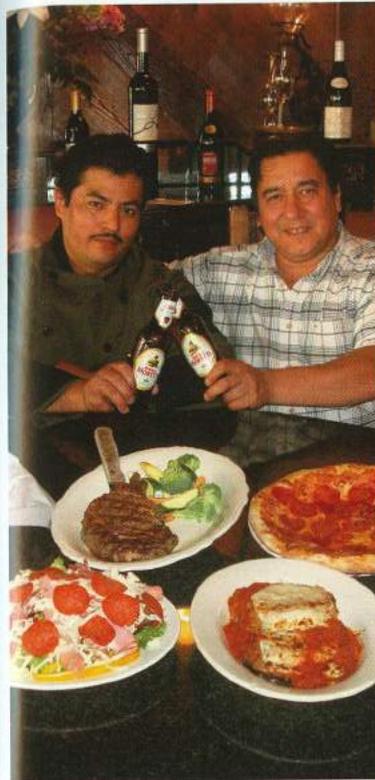

When enjoying The Silver Dollar Saloon's nightly entertainment, stop by the DJ booth and say hello to DJ "Musicman" Shawn. What has kept him at The Silver Dollar Saloon for almost seven years and counting, is his music knowledge and his friendly personality.

Although his personal love is for Latin Dance and 80's Retro, you can count on hearing customer requests and a great variety of music too. While there I heard Cumbia Dance, Tejano Polkas, Reggaeton, International, Merengue, and Salsa. By request he also plays Upbeat Country Dance, Line Dances, some classic 80's Retro New Wave and Old School Freestyle Music.

When talking with DJ "Musicman" Shawn said "The only regret of working so much is that I don't get the time to travel outside the San Antonio area to see what other cities are doing and possibly being a guest DJ somewhere." DJ "Musicman" Shawn's love for San Antonio and for The Silver Dollar Saloon is never ending.
